What is Arqen

Arqen is a leveraged trading bot that runs inside Telegram. You paste a token, pick your investment and leverage, and Arqen opens a position larger than your actual capital by co-investing from its liquidity pool.

You collect gains on the full position. When you close, Arqen recovers its contribution flat with no profit share. Everything above that is yours. Your maximum loss is always capped at what you put in.

Why Arqen Exists

Spot trading leaves money on the table every time you are right. Perpetuals only work on listed assets and charge funding rates to hold a position overnight. Polymarket pays you if an event resolves in your favour, but you miss the entire price run leading into it.

Arqen fills the gap: leveraged exposure to any token, inside Telegram, with no funding rates and a clear fee structure you can see before you confirm.
