Introduction

On-chain data is a goldmine of information, but only if you know where to look. With thousands of new tokens launching and millions of trades happening daily, it’s impossible to manually keep up. And while the data is all out in the open, turning that noise into an actual trading edge feels impossible - that’s where Market Stalker comes in.

Instead of you sifting through endless on-chain activity, we do the heavy lifting. Since August 2024, we’ve built and refined The Market Stalker, a real-time, multi-layered wallet tracking system that generates signals based on wallets that consistently provide the best opportunities, avoid scams, and provide attainable high returns.

Our algorithm analyses each trade as it happens and re-tiers wallets on a trade-by-trade basis to ensure you’re always getting signals from the top performers, not old wallets that hit high profits once.
