03 · Value model

How game revenue reaches the token

1 · EARN
Games earn revenue from players.

2 · BUY
A share of that revenue buys $QORPO on the open market.

3 · BURN
Part of every buyback is burned forever.

4 · BUILD
The rest funds the treasury that builds the next game.

Every buyback is listed on qorpo.world/token with the amount bought, the amount burned and a link to the on-chain transaction. One token across every product means a new game adds demand to the same token instead of launching a new one.

04 · Utility

What holders can do

- Staking on qorpo.world/staking: daily Community Points by QORPO Power level, plus APY tiers.
- Daily spin on qorpo.world/spin, free for stakers.
- Community Points leaderboard on qorpo.world/leaderboard, Ethereum and BNB Chain combined.
- Ecosystem airdrops, including eligibility for the $TAMITOS airdrop.
- In-game ownership in AneeMate: creatures and items are tradable and stay yours across updates.

05 · Why a studio token

One token, many games

Most gaming tokens belong to one game and fade when that game does. $QORPO is tied to the studio, so every product the studio ships, from AneeMate to One Life to Tamitos, feeds the same token. The studio's output is public every hour, so the bet is on a team you can watch working.

Plain talk: $QORPO is a micro-cap token. Its price can move sharply in both directions and it can lose all of its value. This document describes the studio and how the token works; it is not financial advice or an offer to sell securities. Figures are a snapshot from 6 October 2026; current data lives on qorpo.world.
