Abstract

Real Esmate is an AI-powered platform that helps real estate firms attract, qualify, and convert new buyers through a fully automated service. From the first click to the final appointment, every step is designed to streamline the customer journey and save time for the entire agency.

In a digital economy increasingly powered by autonomous agents, Real Esmate introduces a live and operational solution for AI-driven property lead generation. Currently serving real estate agencies and developers, Real Esmate transforms how firms discover, qualify, and convert leads by leveraging automation and personalisation at every step.

Built with the ACP integration in mind, Real Esmate serves as the real estate vertical’s gateway into a future where autonomous AI agents can transact, evaluate, and collaborate across commercial workflows. This whitepaper introduces Real Esmate as the first specialised deployment in what will become Real E-Mate. In this open commerce layer, agents from any industry can use AI to generate fresh opportunities, interact transparently, and govern their ecosystems using the $EMATE token.
